Scholarship Book

Compiled, Edited & Revised Yearly by the BOHS Guidance Department

Printed with permission from Gina Aguilar, Esperanza High School

Dear Students and Parents:

Thank you for purchasing our 6th annual Scholarship Booklet. We hope it will serve as a valuable resource for financial aid and scholarship information. The first several pages will give you a general overview of the financial aid process. Please read this information carefully, as the process can be complicated and overwhelming at times. In addition, we offer a Financial Aid night in January, which goes into further detail about how to finance a college education. We highly recommend that you attend.

The second part of this book is dedicated to scholarships. Some of the scholarships included in this booklet are sent directly to the guidance office, please listen to your daily announcements and check the scholarship bulletin every month for more information. Your guidance secretary and counselor can help you sign up for these scholarships as they have some of these applications on hand. Deadlines vary on these scholarships from year to year, although the majority of scholarships are due in the spring. Those scholarships that are not sent directly to the guidance office you must pursue yourself. If an address is given, please send a request with a self-addressed stamped envelope. In some cases, two addresses are listed. We suggest you contact both in order to ensure you receive the materials in a timely manner. If a website is given, you can usually download the application directly.

It is important to know that the status of some scholarships may change throughout the year. Some change their address or discontinue the scholarship altogether. We do our best to update this book annually. Please notify us of any changes that you become aware of so we can keep our information as current as possible.

Finally, with the increase in technology, a book such as this can only supplement the information available on the internet. Please pay close attention to the websites listed in this book, as they are the best places to find the most up-to-date scholarship and financial aid information. Good luck in your scholarship hunt.

BRIDGING THE GAP: FINANCIAL AID FOR COLLEGE

Financial aid is help for meeting college costs, both direct educational costs (such as tuition, fees, and books) and personal expenses (such as food, housing, and transportation).

People are sometimes surprised that students can get financial aid to help them pay for living expenses while living at home. Even colleges with comparatively low tuition, like community colleges, can give qualified students some help in paying for food, rent, commuting, and other personal expenses.

Many students don't realize that financial aid is available to pay for non-collegiate education and training programs also. If you are thinking about vocational or trade school after high school, financial aid could be a possibility for you.

ELIGIBILITY FOR FINANCIAL AID

While each program has its own special criteria, certain basic eligibility requirements are common to almost all programs. For example, to be eligible for some programs you must be at least a half-time student (usually defined as six semester hours of courses per semester or its equivalent). But most programs, such as those sponsored by colleges and private organizations, require recipients to attend on a full-time basis, usually at least 12 hours per semester.

You must also be enrolled in an eligible program at an eligible institution. Programs require that you maintain satisfactory academic progress toward a degree or certification and be in good standing with the institution you attend.

WHO GETS FINANCIAL AID?

While many scholarships are based on criteria other than demonstrated need, most financial aid today is awarded on the basis of need. Sometimes factors such as academic performance, career plans, or special abilities are considered in addition to demonstrated need.

Since the amount a family can afford to pay stays the same whether the costs are high or low, you can see that you would be eligible for different amounts of aid at different colleges. In fact, if you get all the financial aid you're eligible for, you could end up paying the same amount at a high-cost college as you would at a lower-cost one.

That's a pretty big "IF." Student aid funds appear to be declining, not increasing. But you can improve your chances of getting the outside help you need. FINANCIAL AID DOESN'T JUST HAPPEN TO YOU. You have to take an active part in the process by identifying all possible sources of assistance for which you might be eligible and by applying the right way at the right time.

DETERMINING FINANCIAL NEED

Colleges determine a student's financial need by comparing his or her resources with probable educational and living expenses. Special consideration is given to students who have unusual medical expenses. The resources colleges consider include:

The student's contribution: The student is expected to contribute a minimum amount to his or her own educational costs. This money may come, for example, from personal savings or a part-time job during the school year and summer breaks.

The parents' contribution: If the student is financially dependent on his or her parents, the amount of their expected contribution is based upon information submitted about parent's income, assets, and household size.

Other resources: These include such things as public assistance, savings, and scholarships that the student receives from other sources.

If the college determines that the student's resources are not sufficient to meet educational and living expenses, he or she will be eligible for financial aid. In that case, the student will be offered a financial aid package, which may include a combination of funds from the available aid programs—scholarships, grants, loans, and work-study. The student must maintain satisfactory academic progress to continue to be eligible for financial aid.

TYPES OF FINANCIAL AID

The basic types of financial aid are described below. (Because many financial aid programs are funded by the federal and state governments, they are subject to change from year to year.) The college general catalogs are good sources of more detailed information about these programs. Prospective students are also ENCOURAGED to contact the college campus financial aid offices.

- SCHOLARSHIPS:

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic achievement and potential. The amount of the award, however, may depend upon the student's financial need. ALL STUDENTS WITH OUTSTANDING ACADEMIC RECORDS ARE ENCOURAGED TO APPLY FOR SCHOLARSHIPS. Students should apply for federal and state financial aid unless they are sure that they will not be found financially needy. (DO NOT “SECOND GUESS” AS TO WHETHER OR NOT YOU WILL BE CONSIDERED “NEEDY.” LET SOMEONE ELSE DECIDE; APPLY ANYWAY!) Scholarship awards do not have to be repaid.

There are literally thousands of private sources of financial aid for students provided through scholarships, grants, and low-interest loans. While aid from the federal government, state government, and colleges constitute much of the financial aid; private aid does offer important assistance to students of different need levels and different academic standings. Your child might qualify for one of the many specialized scholarships available. These scholarships may come from corporations, religious denominations, foundations, trade associations, clubs, veterans groups, and many other kinds of organizations. The eligibility criteria, award amounts, and application procedures obviously vary from program to program. Some base their awards on need, others on academic achievement, career plans, athletic ability, ethnic or racial heritage, religious affiliation, parents’ membership in a group, or any one of the other countless criteria.

-FEDERAL AID PROGRAMS:

Some aid programs, such as Federal Pell Grants, are offered directly to students by the federal government. Others are administered by the school and colleges (Federal SEOG, Federal College Work-Study, and Federal Perkins Loans). The federal student loan programs are administered by guaranteed agencies such as the California Student Aid Commission. Students must possess a valid Social Security number and have completed U.S. Selective Service requirements.

a. Federal Pell Grants:

The Federal Pell Grant program is a large student grant program and provides a “foundation” of financial aid to which other aid may be added.

Applicants who meet all requirements will receive a Federal Pell Grant. Applicants must qualify financially, be enrolling in an eligible program at an eligible school or college, and must not have already obtained a bachelor’s degree.

Pell Grant eligibility is determined by a federal methodology. A need analysis service determines an applicant’s eligibility according to that formula. The smaller the index number, the larger the grant. Federal Pell Grant awards for full-time students go up to $4,000. Those who qualify for a Pell Grant are usually eligible for other financial aid and should apply for it. Those not eligible for a Pell Grant still may be eligible for other aid.

b. Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG):

Students who qualify for additional assistance may get a Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG) to go with other sources of financial aid. These federal grants range from $100 to $4,000 per award year. Schools and colleges award these grants to those who qualify according to the schools' eligibility criteria. Colleges may award SEOG to students who are enrolled less than half time.

c. Federal College Work-Study:

Many colleges will offer students a federal Work-Study job as part of a financial aid package. This helps needy students earn their way through college while gaining valuable skills and work experience.

Colleges assist students in locating jobs either on or off campus with a nonprofit or government employer or with a private for-profit company. To the maximum extent practical, students will be placed in work related to their studies or career plans. Wages usually depend on the level of responsibility required by the job, but are equal at least to the federal minimum wage.

d. Federal Perkins Loan:

Perkins Loans are very low-interest (5%) federal loans available for students who have financial need and are enrolled at a participating school. The annual loan limit is $4,000 for undergraduate students and $6,000 for graduate students. The aggregate loan limits are up to $20,000 for undergraduate study leading to a bachelor's degree, and up to $40,000 for graduate or professional study. No interest is paid while enrolled in school at least half time and repayment begins nine months after graduation, leaving school, or dropping below half-time enrollment. Depending on the size of the loan, borrowers have up to 10 years to repay.

-STATE AID PROGRAMS:

Cal Grants A, B and C:

To qualify for a Cal Grant A, B or C, a student must be a California resident attending an eligible school or college in the state of California, must be making satisfactory academic progress as determined by the institution, and must be in a program of study leading directly to an undergraduate degree or certificate. Student must apply for a Cal Grant by the March 1 deadline.

a. Cal Grant A:

Cal Grant A helps low and middle-income students with tuition/fee costs. Grant recipients are selected on the basis of financial need and grade point average. Students must have an academic unweighted GPA of at least 3.0.

Awards average between $5,000 and $10,000 (currently $9,708) at independent schools and colleges, $12,192 at UC's, and $5,472 at CSU's. The minimum course length is two academic years. All awards are subject to change.

If you qualify for a Cal Grant A and want to attend a public community college, the Student Aid Commission will reserve a tuition/fee award until you transfer to a tuition/fee charging college, provided that you continue to qualify. However, new recipients cannot transfer a community college reserve award to a tuition/fee charging school during their first year as a recipient.

To be eligible for a first-time Cal Grant A, a student must enroll at least half time in the fall term of the year for which the award is made.

b. Cal Grant B:

Cal Grant B provides a living allowance (and sometimes tuition/fee help) for very low-income students. The approximate living allowance for new awards is $1,551. The tuition/fee awards are the same as those for Cal Grant A. The minimum course length is one academic year.

More than half of all new Cal Grant B recipients must begin at a public community college. Therefore, the Cal Grant B award for freshmen is usually limited to the non-tuition college costs such as living expenses, books, and supplies, transportation, etc. When renewed by sophomores, juniors, and seniors, a Cal Grant B also may cover all or part of tuition/fee costs up to $9,036.

c. Cal Grant C:

Cal Grant C helps vocational school students with tuition and training.

For 2012-13, the maximum award was $576 at California community colleges. The amount is higher at participating private vocational schools. Recipients must be enrolled in a vocational program at a community or independent college, or vocational school, in a program of study from four to 24 months in length. A student also must enroll in at least half time in the fall term of the year for which the award is made.

d. State Work-Study Program:

The State Work-Study program at a limited number of schools offers eligible college and university students the opportunity to earn money to help defray educational expenses.

Schools will help find jobs that relate to the student's course of study, career goals, or the exploration of careers. Students will be paid at rates comparable to those paid for positions within the employing organization. Jobs may be with public institutions or nonprofit or profit-making enterprises.

HOW TO APPLY FOR FINANCIAL AID:

Step 1. FIGURE OUT WHAT SCHOOLS REQUIRE.

During the college admission application process, also find out what each school requires to apply for financial aid. Even at similar colleges in California, requirements and deadlines are not the same. Schools outside the state will often have their own financial aid application process.

When mailing important letters or forms, ask the post office for a certificate of mailing. Print your name and Social Security number at the top of each document and make and keep copies. Be prepared to supply additional materials, such as your family's income tax returns (IRS Form 1040), directly to the school.

Step 2. GET AND COMPLETE THE RIGHT APPLICATIONS. AVAILABLE IN COUNSELING OFFICE

In California, you may apply for a Federal Pell Grant and for a state Cal Grant by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). At the same time, in order to qualify for Cal Grant Aid, students must also complete the Cal Grant Student Aid Supplement, a one page document verifying 10th and 11th grade G.P.A. (excluding PE), signed and verified by your high school counselor, and mailed to the California Student Aid Commission by March 1, but not before January 1.

Spanish language forms are available for those who require them at colleges and other post-secondary school financial aid offices. DO NOT FILE THE FAFSA EARLIER THAN JANUARY 1.

Be sure to review carefully the application instructions and provide accurate information. Mail the completed form to the appropriate need analysis service, which will determine expected family contribution.

The need analysis service will send copies to the federal government for Pell Grant evaluation, to colleges which you list, (up to six) and to the California Student Aid Commission if you so request.

In acknowledging an application, the need analysis service also sends you a form (SAR) indicating the information submitted on your application and used in determining your family contribution. Carefully review it and submit any corrections on the form supplied.

STUDENTS WHO APPLY TO PRIVATE COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES throughout the United States must check with their counselor to see if their particular institution ALSO requires additional information which must be provided by completing the CSS/FINANCIAL AID PROFILE and mailing the PROFILE from November 1, to no later than January 15. There is a nominal charge to have this information processed and sent to each of those private institutions that require it and to which you are making an application for admission.

Step 3. APPLY FOR A CAL GRANT BY MARCH 1.

There is no charge to apply for a state-sponsored Cal Grant A, B or C. Follow the instructions and complete the appropriate sections on the FAFSA, including answering “yes” to question 33 and completing Section I: State Information. Do not file before January 1. The need analysis service will forward your processed application to the Student Aid Commission. To be considered for a Cal Grant, a completed FAFSA must be filed by the March 1 postmark deadline.

Students applying for a Cal Grant ALSO MUST FILE the Cal Grant Supplement (signed by the high school counselor and verifying the GPA) with the California Student Aid Commission by the deadline. College financial aid offices have complete information and materials.

The Student Aid Commission makes Cal Grant award notifications beginning in the spring. Check with the college financial aid office.

Step 4. THE FEDERAL PELL GRANT DEADLINE

Using the FAFSA, file as early as possible after January 1, but no later than March 1. Four to six weeks after applying for a Pell Grant you will receive a Student Aid Report (SAR) from the processor, which shows whether you are eligible. Follow any instructions that are included with the SAR.

Step 5. OTHER GRANTS AND SCHOLARSHIPS

Follow up on application requirements for private scholarships and grants. Prepare to spend some time researching this subject; writing letters or essays and even interviewing community groups may be part of the private scholarship application process.

Step 6. FEDERAL STUDENT LOAN PROGRAMS

Application requirements for student loan programs vary. For example, the Federal Stafford loan is a need-based program and applicants first must have their eligibility determined for a Pell Grant. A separate Stafford loan application/promissory note from must be completed. Other loans will have different eligibility and application requirements. All loans must be repaid with interest.

Ask your college financial aid office for exact loan application information and requirements. (Some schools are restricted from participation in the various student loan programs due to high default rates.) Complete the required forms and return them to the college for certification. You or your college then must forward the certified loan application to the participating lender.

The college financial aid offices have lists of banks, savings and loan institutions, and credit unions that make student loans, along with the current lending policies for many of them. Before applying for a student loan, make sure that doing so will not affect other aid.

Step 7. AFTER STUDENT AID IS OFFERED

Carefully read all letters and notices received from colleges, the federal student aid processor, the need analysis service, the Student Aid Commission, and private scholarship organizations. The offers of financial aid vary by school and may be sent either before or after you are notified about admission. If additional information is requested, respond promptly.

When offering campus-based aid, schools take into account family contributions, Federal Pell Grants, cal Grants, other scholarships and veterans' benefits. Read your award letter carefully.

Here are things you should know about a financial aid offer:

- Sign and return all forms, indicating whether you are accepting or rejecting the award.
- You need not accept the whole student aid package. If you do not accept the loan portion, the college financial aid office usually will not be able to increase the size of your grant.
- Many schools and colleges allow students to trade work aid for a loan or loan aid for work-study. Ask the financial aid office for details.
- Your award may be changed if your financial resources or expenses change. Report any changes, both before and during the school year, to the financial aid office.

Financial aid generally is disbursed when a student begins classes. Ask the financial aid office how your Pell Grant, campus-based aid, and Cal Grant payments will be made and plan accordingly. Also ask how to get your checks; some schools mail the awards, while others expect students to pick them up.

Private organizations will notify you directly of an award. Students may be paid directly or through the campus financial aid office. If you receive other aid, you must report it to the financial aid office right away.

OTHER GRANTS AND SCHOLARSHIPS

TALK WITH YOUR HIGH SCHOOL COUNSELOR; READ THIS BOOKLET THOROUGHLY; ask your parents to check at work with their employers or labor unions or with fraternal or veteran organizations

NEXT YEAR YOU MUST REAPPLY

In order to receive aid for each year in college you will have to submit a new FAFSA, Cal Grant Supplement, AND/OR F.A.F. application and supporting documents every year. The financial aid office at the school you attend will have the information on when and how to reapply. You will be required to maintain satisfactory academic progress toward a degree or certification in order to qualify for aid each year.

To renew your Cal Grant, you must continue to have financial need and be enrolled at an eligible school or college.

MILITARY ACADEMY/ROTC SCHOLARSHIPS OFFER OUTSTANDING OPPORTUNITIES

Military academies and ROTC scholarships offer an excellent means for academically talented students to receive an education at no cost. ROTC scholarships can be used at most major universities and colleges, thus broadening the student's choice of an institution of higher learning. Locations: Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs; Coast Guard Academy, New London,; Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, N.Y.; Naval Academy, Annapolis, MD; U.S. Military Academy, West Point, N.Y.

Costs: Full scholarships totaling $250,000 are awarded which cover tuition and room and board; each student also receives a stipend ($470-$600 per month) to meet costs of books, supplies, clothing, and personal expenses. The cost to the student is a post-graduation, five-year duty commitment to serve as a military officer. Merchant Marine officers, except during national emergency, enter the maritime industry after graduation.

Admission Timeline: Junior year: Contact counselor and/or an academy representative. Names and numbers are available from the guidance secretary. An early contact with the representative may help in developing plans to meet all requirements. Write three letters of application. Send them to the U.S. Senators and Congressman Gary Miller. The letter should state strong desire to attend an academy and include a listing of academy selections. It is to your advantage to list several choices. Make a copy of all letters. Write to each of the academies that you are considering for admission. Include in each letter a copy of your transcript, PSAT report, (SAT I report and 3 SAT II Subject Test scores, if possible).

Test Requirements: The PSAT should be taken in October of junior year. Take the SAT I in March or April and June, and take the SAT II Subject tests in May of the junior year (optional). You may retake the SAT I early in senior year if needed.

Application Dates: Apply for nomination in the spring, mid-second semester of junior year. You can apply as late as December of senior year, but this is not wise to do.

Senior Year: Congressional screening will occur in September and October of senior year; interviews will be held in November and December. Physical exams will be held November to February. Class selection will be made in mid-January to April. Reporting for duty to an academy will be mid-June following graduation.

Academic Program: High school academic program should be rigorous. Student will be competing with students throughout the United States and California for acceptance. It is recommended that the following program be taken:

- a. Four years college-prep English
- b. Four years college-prep math
- c. Three to four years college-prep science
- d. Three years foreign language
- e. Participation in school/community extracurricular activities
- f. Maintain a high G.P.A. and class rank in top 20%. Honors and AP courses are recommended.

ROTC Scholarships: As a back-up, students should apply for an ROTC scholarship if they are applying to an academy. The Reserve Officers Training Program (ROTC) offers competitive scholarships, which include $7,000 toward tuition, fees, books, and a subsistence allowance. The cost to the students is also a post-graduation commitment to serve as an officer in the military. Many public and private colleges throughout the country provide ROTC programs, including Stanford, Harvard, Cal Tech, MIT, USC, UC, and CSU. This is an opportunity worth exploring during the sophomore and junior year. More information is available in the college/career center.

WHAT ABOUT SCHOLARSHIPS?

High achieving students may believe that charitable organizations, community groups and others will be anxious to recognize excellence by rewarding them with a scholarship. Few scholarships will find their way to students unless they look for them first. While many scholarships are available, their requirements vary greatly.

Applying for scholarships may take some work. Some time has to be devoted to researching different kinds of scholarships. It's seldom as easy as filling out one application such as the single form many universities require for financial aid.

Scholarships are often awarded on the basis of a combination of financial need and academic merit. OTHERS ARE GRANTED FOR ACADEMIC MERIT ONLY, such as CSU and UC scholarships which are awarded each spring to select seniors whose GPA is 3.75 or above.

Not all scholarships require a straight "A" average. Many scholarships require a minimum GPA of 3.0 and a membership in service organizations or involvement in community and extracurricular activities.

Academic and athletic departments at colleges and universities often offer scholarships. Some departmental scholarships may be available to freshmen, while others are only for continuing students majoring in particular areas. Students should contact the coach of their particular sport or the department that includes a particular major.

Be aware that the deadlines for filing scholarship applications vary. There are different cycles for applying for scholarships. Usually, however, the filing periods for most are mid-January to mid-April with awards made the following fall.

Why isn't it easier to find and apply for scholarships? Many organizations and groups are interested in students who show leadership abilities. Requesting an application, typing it instead of writing it, following directions—these efforts are often important to those awarding scholarships. They're interested in students who TAKE THE INITIATIVE AND FOLLOW THROUGH. A student can be no less industrious in seeking and applying for scholarships than he or she was in vying for the top grades that qualify a student for most scholarships.

ONE FINAL NOTE: The Internet has become an invaluable resource for scholarship and financial aid information. Scholarship searches can be done with immediate results coming directly to you through email. New websites become available on a weekly basis. Those listed below are some that counselors and students have found to be useful.

The College Board –

(www.collegeboard.org) College Board Online gives students and parents "information to aid in the transition from school to college." This site also has the “ExPAN Scholarship Search,” which provides free information about private scholarships. You can get information about familiar College Board tests, programs, and services. The website also includes online registration for PROFILE which is a financial aid application service.

Fast WEB (Financial Aid Search Through the Web) –
(www.fastweb.com) Is a free service that allows you to search a database of more than 180,000 private sector aid sources. You are asked to enter information about yourself, and then scholarships that match your qualifications pop up on screen. You will be sent emails when new scholarships for which you may be eligible become available.

The Financial Aid Information Page –
(<http://www.finaid.org>) This site is a comprehensive source of student aid information offering descriptions and links to many other financial aid sites. It also includes a glossary of aid terms, recommended readings, scholarship search service information, and links to university websites that give details on institutional aid and scholarships at specific colleges. This website also has links to at least three FREE scholarship searches.

Sallie Mae College Answer Service Online –
(www.salliemae.com) Provides easy access to an extensive array of information about planning and paying for college.

U.S. Department of Education –
(www.ed.gov/students) This site offers The Student Guide, the official handbook of federal financial aid programs, which includes procedures for filling out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). You can also link to Web sites of state education departments to find out about their aid programs.

Yahoo –
(http://www.yahoo.com/education/financial_aid/) Financial Aid Search provides a long link-list of college financial aid offices.

SCHOLARSHIP OPPORTUNITIES FOR BREA OLINDA STUDENTS:

On the following pages you will find a listing of scholarships that have been available to Brea Olinda students for the past several years. Not every scholarship on the list is available every year; however most are available on a yearly basis.

Addresses and/or phone numbers are provided for students to make their own contacts. WHEN SENDING REQUESTS FOR SCHOLARSHIP APPLICATIONS, YOU MUST ENCLOSE A SELF-ADDRESSED, STAMPED ENVELOPE! SEND REQUESTS APPROXIMATELY TWO MONTHS BEFORE APPLICATION DEADLINES. Also, there is a comprehensive listing at the end of the booklet of all fraternal organizations, clubs, unions, and companies that are known to offer scholarship to members, employees (deceased or living), and/or their dependents. It is the student's parents' responsibility to follow through on these. NOTE: The accuracy of the information provided and availability of the scholarships varies greatly each year. We do our best to provide you with the most accurate information.

ABBOTT AND FENNER SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

$1,000 awarded to selected applicants. To be eligible, you must be a high school junior or senior and write a 500-1000 word essay on a selected topic. For additional information, visit: <http://www.abbottandfenner.com/scholarships.htm>

Application Deadline is in the month of June.

A.F.L./C.I.O. DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION:

A.F.L. /C.I.O. offers a scholarship guide with a variety of scholarships to post-secondary institutions including, two and four-year colleges and universities, culinary institutes, musician training institutes, vocational, technical and nursing schools. Although most scholarships listed in the guide are available to union members and families, some are available to general public. This database describes more than $4 million in scholarships, with details about eligibility, application deadlines and contact information. Although it cannot track all of the scholarships available through the almost 38,000 local unions in the United States, it does include the major scholarship programs and is a good place to start a search for financial aid for higher education. Single copies are available without charge for union members. Copies are $3.00 each for all others. Checks may be made payable to the Secretary-Treasurer AFL/CIO and sent to the AFL/CIO Department of Education, 815 16th Street, N.W., Washington D.C. 20006.

These requirements are listed in the Campus Requirements for Scholarships in the application form. Students with outstanding academic records are considered for Regents Scholarships, the University's most prestigious scholarship award. Awards are based on merit alone; financial need is not a consideration. Alumni associations at some campuses award scholarships to entering students who have not demonstrated leadership, academic achievement, and participation in extracurricular activities. You do not need to be a relative of an alumnus to apply. SOME CAMPUSES REQUIRE YOU TO SUBMIT ADDITIONAL DOCUMENTATION SUCH AS LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION, TRANSCRIPTS, OR AN ESSAY IN ADDITION TO THE ONE REQUESTED ON THE APPLICATION (SEE UNDERGRADUATE APPLICATION SCHOLARSHIP SECTION). Please print your full name as it appears on the undergraduate application form and your social security number at the top of each page of supporting documentation you submit. Do not enclose these documents with your application form or send them to the central processor. They will not be forwarded, returned, or retained. The minimum GPA requirement varies by campus and may also vary by type of scholarship.
